

Global IT Staffing

Contract, contract-to-hire, direct-hire and outsourced managed staffing services.

SPI is a global provider of technical staffing services in the U.S. and India to Fortune 500 companies. In the U.S. SPI also has extensive experience providing technology staffing solutions for Fortune 500 companies, military organizations and federal government agencies. SPI acquires and deploys and manages the best people. Our people are thoroughly tested during the recruiting process to validate their business and technical knowledge as well as communication skills. SPI personnel undergo extensive background investigations, drug testing and other security in accordance with commercial, military and government client requirements.

Individuals or Teams - the Right People at the Right Time

Whether you need an individual with specific skill sets and experience or an entire project team of technical professionals, SPI has the experience and reputation for deploying the right people at the right time. Staffing configurations include contract, contract-to-hire and direct-hire. Contract staffing are typically 12-month engagements, contract-to-hire is commonly the “try before you buy” model for a 3 to 6-month duration and direct-hire is where we recruit individuals that will become full-time employees of our clients. SPI’s extensive experience with U.S. military and federal agencies combined with its Top Secret clearance assures clients the utmost security and protection of resources and information.

Vendor Managed Staffing Services

Our Vendor Management Staffing Services (VMSS) provide clients with highly skilled personnel on an “as-needed” basis, saving our clients recruiting time and money by supplying required core staffing competencies. In addition, SPI’s comprehensive screening process and account management by information technology professionals make SPI a valued VMSS partner.

Personnel Deployment in the U.S. and India Locations

SPI deploys all its technology staffing solutions in the U.S and India through its global headquarters in Dallas, Texas and its development facility in New Delhi, India. Recruiting teams in both locations work together to identify and qualify the most experienced global talent for each client requirement.